WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Dear Fellow Nevadan,

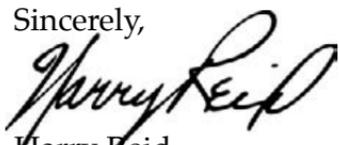

All across our state, businesses, nonprofits, and local governments are working to improve our communities. Federal and private grants support these organizations by providing funding for various projects and programs. Grantmaking foundations are established to provide financial support to projects whose goals align with their own. These foundations offer alternative or supplemental funding to federal grants, and the financial support they provide may also be used for federal grants that have matching requirements.

This directory is a compilation of private foundations located in Nevada as well as national foundations that serve the Silver State. This directory includes contact information and a description of the foundations' focal points and application guidelines. These foundations provide grants for projects related to human services, education, healthcare, animal welfare, neighborhood development and many other causes. The directory is organized alphabetically, however, a list of organizations by topic has been provided in the index.

As you examine this directory to identify foundations that may help your organization, you will note that the foundations use varying application processes and some have restrictions on the types of programs they will fund. Please research these foundations thoroughly to ensure that they fit your organization's specific needs.

I hope you find this information helpful. If you are also interested in federal funding opportunities, please visit my website at www.reid.senate.gov/services/grants.cfm. On behalf of the lives you touch, thank you for all the work you do to help make Nevada a better place to live.

Sincerely,

Harry Reid
U.S. Senator for Nevada

RUSSELL SAGE FOUNDATION

The foundation is a private operating foundation devoted exclusively to the conduct and dissemination of research in the social sciences. Its current programs include research on the causes and consequences of the decline in demand for low-skilled workers in advanced economies; the adaptation of U.S. immigrants and their children to American society; efforts by American institutions to accommodate greater racial and ethnic diversity; and a variety of smaller special projects and research initiatives. The foundation sponsors a Visiting Scholar Program in which individual scholars and collaborative groups pursue research and writing projects related to the foundation's interests at its headquarters in New York City for periods of up to one year. The foundation also provides support for scholars at other institutions to pursue research projects that advance the foundation's research interests. The foundation disseminates the resulting research findings through its own book publishing program.
